Ron Jones facilitated the Get Out Of Your Bubble program for our New Student Fall Orientation on August 22, 2016. Ron has facilitated other awesome programs in the past, but this was by far the BEST program yet!

The diversity training session included new students, transfer students and international students from many unique backgrounds. Ron was able to connect with them and make them comfortable throughout the session. BAC students were engaged and had a great time! The activities and discussion had everyone up on their feet throughout the session. The students were able to speak with Ron for another hour after the show, as they were seeking a deeper perspective on the issues and ideas they discussed. His engagement and response to the students was very professional.

Ron was instrumental in the following initiatives:

- Empathizing with other ethnicities and their points of views on current events
- Exercising advocacy across all cultures
- The importance of accountability among all cultures
- The inequities our students are witnessing in the world/media
- The institutional nature of bias between dominant and non-dominate powers

The Get Out Of Your Bubble diversity training session was rated very high on the New Student Orientation Survey, with 78.27% of our new students rating they strongly agreed or agreed that Ron helped them understand diversity at Bryn Athyn College.

I strongly recommend Ron Jones and Dialogues on Diversity for training on diversity and inclusion.
