To Whom It May Concern:

There is no dispute of the need for effective and innovative diversity education in today's society. A program that drives home the message of harmonious diversity is therefore an invaluable tool, particularly in a college setting. As is true with most institutions of higher learning, our campus attracts students with a wide range of interests, fields of study, backgrounds, racial and ethnic heritage, and sexual identities.

In an ongoing effort to enhance our students' understanding of the importance of diversity, this fall the North Dakota State College of Science presented to our student body "Black Jew Dialogues" led by Ron Jones. Black Jew Dialogues mixes humorous skits with poignant commentary in a unique blend that drives home their message of unity, acceptance, and understanding. The program captivated our audience with a performance that made a lasting impact for those in attendance.

As an advisor for the NDSCS Campus Activities Board I wholeheartedly recommend Black Jew Dialogues to any entity that wishes to promote the value of diversity within their organization, and look forward to future opportunities to host this entertaining and engaging program.

Sincerely,

Jeff Bass
